The Honourable Minister of Education (HME), Mal. Ibrahim Shekarau, CON, has warned the newly-inaugurated Governing Councils of the 12 new Federal Universities that the Government would not tolerate poor governance of universities or total disregard for due process.

Speaking at the inauguration of the Councils of the 12 new Universities, last Tuesday, at the National Universities Commission (NUC)'s auditorium, Abuja, Mal. Shekarau said that the Federal Government was concerned about good governance and smooth administration of the Nigerian University System

(NUS) and well-being of the individual universities. This, he said, had made the Government to meticulously search out and appoint men and women of proven integrity, who had made impact in various areas of human endeavour, expressing the hope that they would bring their wealth of experience to bear, regarding the rule of law and due process in the discharge of their responsibilities.

The Minister reiterated that the University Councils were constituted according to the law establishing them, saying that the Councils should have a tenure of four years from the date of their inauguration, provided that they were not found to be incompetent or corrupt. He, however, said that Councils could be dissolved by the Visitor at anytime. He added that Government constituted Councils for the Universities for good management, growth and development, assuring them that they would be allowed to discharge their functions and responsibilities, accordingly, without undue interference.

Mal. Shekarau advised that the Councils should, at all times, be in consultation with the Management of the Universities, be abreast of the current laws, government policies, government white papers, circulars, gazettes and other relevant documents that would help in taking decisions. He urged them to explore other ways of generating funding outside Government, to improve the facilities and infrastructure that would promote teaching, research and learning in their respective institutions.

The Minister maintained that the tertiary education sector was very critical to the actualisation of President Jonathan's Transformation Agenda, Vision 20:2020, charging the Council members to address the issues of streamlining of educational programmes in their respective universities, in line with the core mandate of those institutions to meet national and international standards. He said only courses and programmes accredited by the relevant regulatory agencies and professional bodies should be allowed to run.

The Minister charged the Councils to work very hard so that during their tenure, the transformation Agenda of the present administration would not only be given attention, but would be tangible in the institutions, saying the reward of hard work was more work.

In his remarks, the Executive Secretary, National Universities Commission (NUC), Professor Julius A. Okojie, OON, said no university could function effectively without its Governing Councils in place. He expressed confidence in the calibre of the Council members being inaugurated for the Institutions and urged them to work assiduously to ensure rapid development and uninterrupted academic activities in their various Universities and Institutions.

Professor Okojie explained further that Government might approve a major retreat and study tour for all members of the Governing Councils to enable them see the best practices in the world. He stressed the need for the Federal Universities in the country to devise other means of generating funds to enhance government budgetary allocations.

The NUC Scribe urged the Councils to bring their wealth of experience to bear in their respective Institutions, stressing that the NUC would give them necessary support that would aid their duties. He advised the new members to be more focused and proactive in the discharge of their responsibilities, adding that the members should work to eradicate the identified challenges of the NUS, for better university education in Nigeria.

Professor Okojie observed that the event marked another milestone in the transformation of the education sector with the hope of taking the Universities concerned to greater heights. He said that Mr. President had found the Council members worthy of the task and urged them to view the assignment as a clarion call to duty.

The Executive Secretary assured the new Councils of the Commission's renewed assistance in their efforts towards repositioning their assigned Universities. He called on them to put adequate machineries in place to ensure peace and harmony in their Institutions.

Sen. Ahmed Nasir, Deputy Executive Secretary I, Prof C.F. Mafiana and Executive Secretary, NBTE, Dr. Masu'd Kazaure

...Edwin Clark, Hezekiah Receive Licenses

L-R: Hon. Minister of Education, Mal. Ibrahim Shekarau, Chairman, House Committee on Education, Hon. Aminu Suleiman Fagge and Executive Secretary, NUC, Prof. Julius A. Okojie, arriving the venue.

The Honourable Minister of Education (HME), Mal. Ibrahim Shekarau, CON, has said that the growth of private universities in Nigeria had created an environment for healthy competition that stimulated improvement for quality service delivery in the Nigerian University System (NUS).

Presenting the operational licence to the two recently-approved Private Universities, namely Edwin Clack University, Kiagbodo, Delta

State and Hezekiah University, Umudi, (the first private university in Imo State), Mal. Shekarau, noted that the impact of the quality in the NUS was seen from the results of the highly-competitive African Centres of Excellence Award conducted by the World Bank and released in June/July 2014, with 19 Universities from West and Central Africa, including 10 from Nigeria, as successful. He added that the first and third of the 19 Universities ranked, were private Universities in Nigeria.

To reduce the challenge of access to university education in Nigeria, the Minister said that the Federal Government had issued provisional license to the two institutions, which had brought the number of private universities in the country to 61. He noted that the private universities had, recently expanded admission spaces for the swelling population of candidates seeking uni-

While congratulating the proprietors of the Universities, the Minister reminded them that the provisional approval for the institutions to operate was intended to create room for effective mentoring and qualitative growth within the first five years of their operation, stressing that within this period, the new universities would be affiliated to older generation Universities for academic and administrative mentoring. He, however, said that the substantive licence could only be issued to well-managed institutions after a three-year probation, following their respective performance growth, within the guidelines stipulated by the NUC.

Mal. Shekarau commended the NUC for its effort towards ensuring the maintenance and sustenance of quality and for keeping up with the new emerging realities, adding that the Commission had continued to update appropriate mechanisms to ensure that specific quality assurance standards were complied with for the establishment and

In his remarks, the Chairman, House Committee on Education, Hon. Aminu Suleiman, congratulated the two Universities for receiving their operational licence, reminding them that they were on a three-year probation, after which their performance would give them confirmation and permanent approval. He encouraged them to have the average Nigerians in mind by making the fees affordable, noting that this was one of the ways they

Hon. Sulieman, charged the proprietors to see the recognition of their Universities as an opportunity to contribute their quota to the education sector, adding that the Federal Government could not solely meet the admission needs of students and cautioning the Universities not to admit more than the quota allocated to them.

In his address, the Executive Secretary, NUC, Professor Julius A. Okojie, OON, advised the two Universities to make good use of the opportunity given to them, as the Commission would come after them, especially after the probation period, to check their activities, warning that if the Universities were found wanting in their activities, their licence would be withdrawn forthwith and that the Commission would not hesitate to apply any other appropriate sanctions. The NUC Scribe advised parents to always exercise caution and consider curriculum and other academic and environmental factors before sending their wards to private universities in neighboring countries, reminding them that most private institutions in some countries where students were mostly compressed and exploited could not match up with the standards existing in their Nigerian counterparts.

In his remarks, the Chairman, Standing Committee On Private Universities (SCOPU), Professor Akanaren Idem Essien, thanked the Executive Secretary for his continued guidance, support and the confidence reposed in the SCOPU to carry out its duty from time to time, adding that the ceremony was made possible by the efforts of the promoters of the two Universities, for complying with NUC's requirements for the establishment of private universities. He charged the Universities to provide quality education to the society.

In his acceptance speech, the Chairman, Edwin Clark Foundation, thanked President Goodluck Jonathan, GCFR, for ensuring that every State had a federal university and also for approving more private universities. He also thanked the Honourable Minister and the NUC for issuing them the licensing and promised to provide quality education to Nigerian students.

UNIJS At 40: Prof. Okojie Lauds Varsity's Achievements

The Executive Secretary, National Universities Commission (NUC), Professor Julius A. Okojie, OON, has, on behalf of the Board, Management Committee and Staff of the Commission, congratulated the Vice-Chancellor, Principal Officers, Staff and Students of the University of Jos, on the occasion of the institution's 40th anniversary celebration held recently at the University Campus.

Professor Okojie, represented by Professor, Akanaren Essien, said that, from being a campus of the University of Ibadan (UI), the full-fledged status of a Federal University was conferred on the University of Jos by the Military Government in 1975, the same year as other Six Second Generation Universities, including Bayero University, Kano, University of Calabar and the University of Ilorin.

Other Universities, established same year, he said, included the University of Maiduguri, University of Port Harcourt and the Usman Dan Fodiyo University, Sokoto, adding that the exercise brought the total number of Universities to 13, with the concept of, at least, one Federal University per State, in the then 12-State structure, with the Old Oyo State having two Universities (Ibadan and Ife).

The Executive Secretary noted that each State had at least one federal university as part of the Government's effort towards increasing access to University education and ensure equity. He commended Unijos for her academic excellence, uninterrupted activities as well as quality research outputs, congratulating the University for winning one of the 10 African Centres of Excellence Awards for the Nigerian University System (NUS).

In his remarks, the Vice-Chancellor, Professor Hayward Mafuyau, said that the University of Jos had come of age, starting as a campus under the University of Ibadan and growing into an autonomous Federal University, stressing that the Institution had recorded a lot of success in line with its mandate. He observed that all the stakeholders had worked tirelessly towards making Unijos a renowned Centre of Excellence, urging the staff and students of the University as well as all other stakeholders to keep the momentum going in order for the Institution to maintain its excellent status in the comity of Nigerian Universities.

The Vice-Chancellor thanked the NUC-Executive Secretary, Professor Julius A. Okojie, for gracing the occasion and for his untiring efforts towards repositioning of the NUS which, according to him, had paved the way for the NUS to win 10 out of the 19 African Centres of Excellence (ACE). The event witnessed various activities and programmes, including public lectures, among others.

List of Universities with Approved Postgraduate Programmes

The National Universities Commission (NUC) has observed with great concern that some Nigerian universities are running unapproved postgraduate programmes, leading to the award of Masters and PhD degrees. The Commission has also observed that some Parastatals and Institutes are awarding these same Postgraduate degrees, either on their own or through unapproved affiliations with Nigerian and foreign Universities. Such practices are not only unethical, but also antithetical to time-tested quality assurance best practices. The qualifications/awards resulting therefrom are not recognized.
