R-L: Prof. Abubakar Adamu Rasheed, Dr. Abiodun Adeniyi and Prof. Kenneth Amaeshi during their visit to NUC

The Chevening Alumni Association of Nigeria (CAAN) last week paid a visit on the Executive Secretary, National Universities Commission (NUC), Professor Abubakar Rasheed, mni, MFR, FNAL, to promote Africapitalism as an emerging economic philosophy and to seek for its inclusion in the curricula of tertiary education institutions in Nigeria and Africa in general. The Alumni was made up of Nigerians who benefitted from Chevening Scholarship by the British Government.

Explaining the concept of Africapitalism, CAAN Chairman and Chair in Business and Sustainable Development, University of Edinburgh, Ireland, Prof. Kenneth Amaeshi, said that the term was first introduced in 2011 by Nigerian Investor, Entrepreneur and Philanthropist, Mr. Tony O. Elumelu that led to the establishment of Africapitalism Institute which was formally launched in 2014 during the World Economic Summit held in Abuja.

He said that the concept was an African perspective and approach to Capitalism and its role towards the development of the Continent.

He decried the overdependence and whole consumption of western ideas by Africans, while the western world struggled to get ideas from the Continent.

He further pointed out that Africapitalism was all about using ideas to advance Africa's development just as China had been using a strong economic philosophy that had enable it to be among the moving economies in the world. He noted that capitalism was being practiced differently in different climes and in the present competitive global economy, Africa needed to develop its own concept of economic ideology in order to be a player in the global economy.

He said that through Africapitalism, structural barriers that prevent private sector from thriving would be eliminated and thereby developing incentives to unlock opportunities in both public and private sectors.

He said that the Alumni Curriculum Initiative was aimed at promoting Africapitalism through its inclusion as an economic philosophy in tertiary institutions where students would be introduced to the ideology of self-reliance, investment and entrepreneurship from African perspective to shape their future and development of Africa. It would also be committed towards identifying and exploring the extent to which the concept differed from other forms of capitalism and how it would be built into a common movement that would change the principles of business in Africa and also influenced the practices of non-African businesses on the Continent. This, he said, was to produce sustainable economic development through application of critical thinking and entrepreneurship.

Prof. Amaeshi said that the Alumni was therefore seeking the professional support and guidance of NUC in promoting Africapitalism either by its inclusion in the curriculum of the Nigerian University System (NUS) or any other way that would create more awareness on the ideology within the university system.

The Chairman added that the concept could be considered either as a discipline or part of the outline for General Studies in the curriculum. He said that great ideas come out of many ideas and some great ideas die even before being hatched due to lack of encouragement and enabling environment. He assured that University of Edinburg would be willing to partner with the NUS by assisting the Commission in any aspect of curriculum development for the concept and also creating a module for Africa.

On the book Africapitalism written by Prof. Amaeshi, where the whole concept was presented, he said that the ideology has started gaining global attention from notable and reputable organisations such as University of Edinburg, British High Commission (BHC), the British Council (BC), Tony Elumelu Foundation (TEF) and Cambridge University Press which had recently sought for copyright permission to launch the book in order to promote its ideas. He said that CAAN was ready to welcome any strategy that would foster the advancement of Africapitalism.

In his remarks, the Executive Secretary explained that curriculum review was usually done by academic peer groups and the Commission only provided the necessary regulatory guidance and materials for the exercise.

He said that the concept was a laudable initiative and as a starting point, the Commission would support in promoting the book on Africanism and creating more awareness on the ideology among academics in the NUS and Entrepreneurs. He explained that with wider awareness on the concept, it may subsequently be adopted as part of the curriculum either as an economic theory or as component of Business and Management courses.

He commended Prof. Amaeshi for the well-researched and resourceful book on Africanism, describing it an emerging focal point of Africa's development. He said that some may challenge the ideology, but the fact still remained that there was an interface between capitalism and globalisation, especially with the advent of the social media, which if properly harnessed would change the perception of Africa as a consumer continent.

Prof. Rasheed assured CAAN of the Commission's support, pledging that 50 copies of the book would be purchased and distributed to 50 leading universities in the NUS and some copies would also be distributed to some reputable Entrepreneurs and all the Directors in the Commission. He appreciated the Alumni for promoting the concept and making Nigeria to impact on global economic issues.

In their respective contributions, the Management staff of NUC agreed that with proper and wide sensitisation through collaborations, Africapitalism would reawaken African youths towards wealth creation. They said that such economic ideology would move young Africans to begin to reason that they do not need to rely on the western and developed world to be successful.

The neo-capitalism philosophy most closely associated with Africapitalism is the theory of "creating shared wealth". It has also been associated with concepts such as "inclusive capitalism", "impact investing", "conscious capitalism" and "philanthro-capitalism". The overall aim of the initiative was to address the role of African business leaders in the sustainable development of Africa.

Also in the CAAN delegation were Precious Odika of Nnamdi Azikiwe University Awka and Dr. Biodun Adeniyi of Baze University, Abuja.

Other NUC members in attendance were Directors, Finance and Accounts, Mr. Samuel Onazi; Accreditation, Dr. Noel Saliu; Executive Secretary's Office, Mr. Chris Maiyaki; International Cooperation and Liaison Services, Mrs. Constance Goddy-Nnadi; Management Support Services, Barr. Victor Onuoha; Open and Distance Education, Dr. Olamide Adesina; Deputy Directors, International Cooperation, Mrs. Florence Asemadahun; Legal Services, Mr. Moses Awe; Undergraduate Curriculum Development, Barr. Samuel Adejo and Corporate Services, Mr. John Mairafi.

NUC To Create Skills Development Directorate — Prof. Rasheed

The Executive Secretary, National Universities Commission (NUC), Professor Adamu Abubakar Rasheed, Mni, MFR, FNAL, has disclosed that the Commission would soon create a new Directorate of Skills Development for which the input of the Nigerian Economic Summit Group (NESG) would be relevant.

The Executive Secretary dropped the hint when he received a delegation of the NESG, last Thursday in his office.

Professor Rasheed further said that the Commission would continue to ensure that synergy exist between universities and the private sector, describing NESG as a strategic partner of Nigerian universities. He stressed that this was already going on with the Student Industrial Work Experience Scheme (SIWES), under the Directorate of Academic Planning.

This, according to him, was evident with the Group being the major recipient of graduates from the nation's higher institutions and also contributing meaningfully to the Nigerian University System (NUS) by way of creating wealth and improved quality of life for graduates.

He acknowledged that Nigerian universities had recently been suffering from low quality of graduates due to the fact that its best brains left the country to seek greener pastures in foreign countries such as India and China.

According to the Executive Secretary, these countries were doing well because the private sector was encouraged to train students on skills development by their government. He identified some of the challenges bedeviling education in Nigeria to include, insecurity, poor infrastructure and over politicization, stressing that they were major reason for absence of foreign students in Nigeria Universities.

Professor Rasheed, however, assured the visitors that NUC was not resting on its oars concerning the quality of students in the nation's Ivory Towers. He agreed that emphasis should be more on practicals other than theory-based in the universities.

He stated that it was easier for graduates with practical skills to be employed thereby saving private organizations huge costs in training employees. The Executive Secretary revealed that NUC was already working on a blue print called vision 2050 for Nigeria universities, noting that draft copies would be made available to vice-chancellors and to NESG when ready. On the forthcoming summit of NESG, Professor Rasheed urged them to harp on institution's rebuilding.

Earlier in his remarks, the leader of the delegation, Dr. Tayo Aduloju informed the Executive Secretary that NESG being a private sector body, would be willing to collaborate with NUC, especially in the area of training students of higher institutions on Skills Development. He stated that the first summit of NESG was held in 1993, while the current summit was scheduled to hold from the 22nd to 23rd of September, 2018 in Abuja, with the theme “Poverty to Prosperity”.

In his contribution, one of the Directors in NESG, Dr. Doyin Salami said that the Group considered NUC as a strategic partner in its Public-Private sector policy. He affirmed that the target of its partnership was to make the nation’s university graduates employable in the private sector.

According to him, private organizations were not willing to employ graduates from Nigerian Universities due to poor quality and lack of basic skills in many areas of development. He lamented that the private sectors spend a lot in training the graduates, stressing that the universities must look into how higher institutions were managed and administered.

The area NESG intended to work with NUC, he said, was in curriculum development as Nigeria cannot continue to lose its best brains to other countries. This, he said, remained a serious challenge for employers of Labour like NESG, which, he stressed NUC has a lot to do to resolve.

Another member of the team, Dr. Nnanna Ude, disclosed that NESG had made consistent policy recommendations to Government over its past twenty three (23) Summits dwelling essentially on low to lift the country out of Poverty. He stressed on the need for synergy and collaborations between institutions in governance. He cited an example of a country like China, which was able to liberate about 25 million people out of poverty, through collaboration of government and its institutions. He told the Executive Secretary that NESG would invite NUC to partner with it on the summit agenda.

Also in the delegation were NESG Chief Executive Officer, Laoye Jayeola; Head Human Capital Development, Tope Togun; Head of Policy Intelligence Unit, Seun Ojo as well as Grants and Partnership unit, Victoria Ukueke.

In the NUC team were Directors of Executive Secretary’s Office, Mr. Chris Maiyaki; International Corporation and Liaison Services, Mrs. Constance Goddy-Nnadi; Quality Assurance, Dr. Noel Saliu; Management Support Services, Barr. Victor Onuoha; Inspection and Monitoring, Mrs. Essien Usendiah; Open and Distance Education, Mrs. Esther Adesina, as well as the Deputy Director, Entrepreneurship Development, Mr. Osayande Osamudiamen.

NUS Requires 40,000 More Lecturers

— ASUU President

The Chairman, Academic Staff Union of Universities (ASUU), University of Ibadan Chapter, Dr. Deji Omole has called on the Federal Government to commence recruitment of academic staff in public federal institutions in order to save overworked lecturers from untimely death, noting that the country's federal universities were short of not less than 40,000 lecturers.

This was disclosed in a press release issued by the chairman at University of Ibadan recently.

ASUU called for comprehensive medical check-up by various institutions to ascertain health conditions of their staff, noting that in the struggle for survival, many lecturers who thought they were well might have threatening health conditions.

ASUU disclosed that the health of its members was fast depreciating due to work overload occasioned by the failure of the Federal Government to employ more academics to cope with the number of students admitted.

He said that “while academic staff continue to work in the most dehumanised conditions, the Federal Government has refused to pay the academic allowances from 2011 till date.”

Omole also noted that “due to poor working environment, job overload and non-approval of leaves as when due, the union has lost some of its members to death across the nation in 2018.”

Omole, while reacting to the death of Professor of Exercise Physiology at the University of Ibadan, Olasupo Abass stated that the late professor never showed any sign of ailment.

“Professor Ademola Abass was an outstanding scholar of the university who was always ready to assist the students and the university system. The vacuum created by his sudden death will be very difficult to fill by the university,” he said.

Dr Omole further noted that the “Federal Government is not only determined to kill the lecturers with stress, but also determined to kill the University of Ibadan in particular. This is being done by deliberately refusing to pay newly-recruited lecturers to replace our dead or retired colleagues even when due processes are followed in the recruitment procedures.”

Students from all universities in the world are invited to participate in the prestigious Nelson Mandela, World Human Rights Moot Court Competition in 2018. The year 2018 will not only mark the tenth year in the life of the competition, but it will also be an opportunity to celebrate the 70th anniversary of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, and the 100th birthday of human rights icon Nelson Mandela. The final rounds will be held at the United Nations Headquarters in Geneva from 15 to 20 July.

Each year undergraduate and masters level students who wish to participate in the competition submit written legal arguments for the opposing sides in a fictional dispute involving some of the burning human rights issues of the day. The teams with the highest scores from each of the five UN regions are then invited to participate in the final oral rounds in the Human Rights Council Chamber in the Palais des Nations. The case is heard by a panel of eminent international jurists, including judges from international tribunals. Many participants have described participation in the moot as the highlight of their studies.

In 2018 the competition will for the first time be presented not only in English, but also in French. In future years the other UN languages, namely Spanish, Chinese, Russian and Arabic, will also be used.

The teams that are selected to participate in the final rounds in Geneva are expected to cover their own traveling costs as well as accommodation and meals, although limited financial assistance is available.

The last day for submission of memorials is 16 April 2018

8th International Conference on Appropriate Technology (8th ICAT)

November 22-25, 2018

Songhai Center, Porto-Novo, Benin

ORGANIZING SPONSORS
University of Abomey-Calavi, Benin
International Network on Appropriate Technology (INAT)

Endogenous Knowledge, Appropriate Technology and Innovation: Linking the Past and the Future

The 8th International Conference on Appropriate Technology will

- 1) Promote Knowledge-based Endogenous Development and the diffusion of related innovations to support Appropriate Technology (AT) practice
- 2) Identify, initiate and combine AT contributions based on both pre-modern and modern knowledge in a manner that is rooted in an appropriate historical perspective
- 3) Provide a forum for networking on AT solutions for the 21st century through the recognition, valorization and re-appropriation of locally-grounded knowledge and practices

Background

Locally-grounded and useful knowledge, both tacit and codified, is one of the most reliable bases for long term, sustainable prosperity. Unfortunately, much of this knowledge remains under-recognized and undervalued, with turnkey solutions from elsewhere often being presented as readily available or convenient. At present, large numbers of people in the Global South, particularly in Africa, still lack access to clean water, sanitation, clean energy, reliable food and nutrition, and safe transportation, among other challenges. Yet in those same societies, some people have time-tested, demonstrable approaches to resolving them, while others are engaged in cutting-edge scientific research and technological development.

All of these, to the extent that they are informed by contextually-relevant needs, and priorities represent an endogenous knowledge resource base. However, refining, upgrading, applying and diffusing this knowledge in the form of improved products, services and practices also requires the dissemination of lessons and experiences between similarly motivated actors from a broad cross-section of any given society: In exploring various local challenges together from an Appropriate Technology perspective, we believe that we can contribute to a more plural, multi-centric, equitable, sustainable and ultimately more just global community.

NATIONAL UNIVERSITIES COMMISSION

ADVERTORIAL

NUC MAKES HISTORY IN RANKING OF OPEN EDUCATIONAL RESOURCES (OER)

The National Universities Commission has made history in conducting the first-ever ranking of Open Educational Resources (OER) held in institutional repositories. It is the first exercise of its kind in the world and it was initiated by the Executive Secretary of NUC, Professor Abubakar Rasheed, mni, MFR for application in the Nigerian University System. The exercise showed that with 12,070 quality OER holdings presented by 50 universities for the inaugural exercise, Nigerian Universities are now among the best in Africa in OER. It is estimated that with full release of the OER holdings and participation by all universities, this number may quadruple in the next two years making the Nigerian University system the richest in OER in Africa. The OER ranking exercise is to be conducted twice a year.

Open Educational Resources (OER) are teaching, learning and research materials in any medium, digital or otherwise, that reside in the public domain or have been released under an open license that permits no-cost access, use, adapt and redistribute by others with no or limited restrictions. They are technology-enabled, open provision of educational resources for consultation, use and adaptation by a community of users for non-commercial purposes. Materials that constitute OER include curriculum maps, course materials, textbooks, streaming videos, pictorial materials, multimedia applications, podcast, and any other materials that have been designed for use in teaching and learning environment.

The OER ranking exercise was conducted by the 12-member National Experts Group on OER Ranking (NEGOR) and a four-person team of external experts from outside Nigeria.

Fifty universities that participated in the inaugural edition were ranked by (a) ownership (federal, State and private) and (b) generation within ownership. The results are shown below.

The attention of the Management of the Tertiary Education Trust Fund (TETFund) is drawn to the mischievous activities of some unscrupulous elements that are visiting public Universities, Polytechnics and Colleges of Education and some regulatory agencies and presenting themselves as staff of, and working with, the Chairman-designate of the Board of Trustees of TETFund. They usually meet the head of an institution, the bursar and/or director of works/physical planning to make all sort of offers/promises of TETFund intervention projects to be allegedly brought to the institution by the Chairman-designate. In exchange, they make different frivolous requests including nominating contractors/consultants and, in many cases, request for financial gratifications.

The Management of the Fund therefore wishes to inform the beneficiary institutions of TETFund in particular and entire public in general that these mischief-makers have nothing to do with TETFund and all their entreaties should be ignored. Anyone that enters into any transaction with them does so at his/her own risk.

All TETFund Staff on official assignment to any institution carry identification and an introduction letter to the head of the institution.

List of Universities with Approved Postgraduate Programmes

The National Universities Commission (NUC) has observed with great concern that some Nigerian universities are running unapproved postgraduate programmes, leading to the award of Masters and PhD degrees.
